"The Holy Spirit is a divine guest of our soul...
 He transforms us into His dwelling."
 —St. John Vianney

GOD KNOWS ABOUT US

God is Omniscient. That means, He knows all things to be known about everything at the same time. He does not need to be briefed or educated about anything. Psalm 139 says this about God's knowledge: "You know when I sit down or stand up. You know my thoughts even when I'm far away...I cannot escape from your spirit" (Ps. 139: 2,7). We have no secret as far as God is concerned. He is the silent listener to every conversation, reader of our thoughts and motives.

He knew Zaccheus' name without anyone telling him. He knew the source of his wealth, too. Zaccheus pledged to amend his life when he became aware that Jesus knew all those details about him. Likewise, He knew the details of the life of the Samaritan woman.

The same applies to us. God's eyes never close. He knows us through and through. Realizing this should make us not to distance ourselves from God but to develop more trust in Him. By trusting God, we develop a total childlike confidence which assures us that He will not fail us. This saves one many problems and accords peace of mind even in the most difficult moment.

God is very dependable. He does not disappoint us. The human person with all their good intentions can disappoint, because every situation is not under their control. Before ascending into heaven, he told us not to let our hearts be troubled; calling us to trust Him (Jn. 14:1). As we await the coming of the Holy Spirit, whom, He promised us, let us do so trusting totally in Him who knows even more than we know ourselves.

Liturgy notes – Word and Sacrament: There are two principal parts of every Mass: The Liturgy of the Word and the Liturgy of the Eucharist. They are preceded and followed by short opening and closing rites that spiritually lead us to and away from this two-fold essence of the Mass. In the Liturgy of the Word, we believe that God is speaking to us afresh every time we hear the scriptures proclaimed, most especially when the words of Jesus sound again in the ears of the Church with every Gospel; then, in the Liturgy of the Eucharist, we believe that it is the very same Lord who has spoken to us through his Word who becomes really and substantially present in the Eucharist we receive. One way to think about the relationship between the Liturgy of the Word and the Liturgy of the Eucharist is that these particular holy scriptures that I am hearing today are preparing me to receive the Lord at this particular Mass. There is always a tight relationship between word and sacrament in the Church’s understanding of the sacred mysteries. This is all the more reason to pay attention and even cherish every word of the scriptures proclaimed, knowing that you are being prepared to receive the very Body and Blood of the Lord Jesus, being disposed to all the graces that you might be able to receive on this day of your life. Then receive the Lord with an ever-deeper sense of awe and wonder that you are partaking of the body of Jesus who hung on the Cross for you, was raised from the dead, and is now seated at the right hand of the Father. Jesus Christ, Son of God, Saviour: this is whom you receive in Holy Communion, and it is an awesome thing beyond mere human comprehension. After Communion, be sure to say prayers of thanksgiving that God has blessed us with this awesome way to be filled with every grace and heavenly blessing. Then go forth and bring this good news to all those God brings into your life. (©Padre Piccolo)
